

ROOSEVELT TO HARVARD ALUMNI

More Than Ever Feels That Place
For a Man to be Educated Is His Own Home.

ADMIRE OTHER NATIONS

It is More Important That Universities Turn Out Men Than More Scholars.

Cambridge, Mass., June 29.—Guest and host in one, Theodore Roosevelt brought energy and animation to commencement day at Harvard university today.

The cheers that marked his passage among the buildings of the ancient university indicated his position as chief guest of the day, while his presence at the head of the table at the commencement luncheon in Memorial hall was evidence that he was host by virtue of his office of president of the Harvard Alumni association.

Nearly a thousand young men received his honorary degrees in Sanders hall the audience burst into great cheers and applause. J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier, and Gen.
Homer Porter, formerly ambassador to France, also were awarded honorary degrees.

Nearly a thousand young men received their diplomas today.

Col. Roosevelt tonight went to Nahant as guest of Senator Lodge.

ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS.

In opening the alumni meeting, Col.
Roosevelt said in part:

"In the first place, I come home with an increased and hearty friendship and good will for other countries. I have visited many different nations, and the more I see of decent people of other nationalities the more I realize the truth of Abraham Lincoln's statement that there is a deal of human nature in mankind. A good man is a good man anywhere and everywhere.

"I have been given honorary degrees in certain foreign universities on the continent of Europe and in Egypt. I am deeply grateful therefore; I appreciate the honor. It was the privilege and pleasure to me to visit those universities. I admire them with all my heart.

PLACE TO BE EDUCATED.

"And now having said that you will not misunderstand me when I say that I come back feeling more truly than ever that the place for a man to be educated is his own home. Let him be educated at school and university here in the United States. If he has a chance to take a post-graduate course elsewhere, according to his tastes and needs, that is all right, but let him have the foundations laid here, where his citizenship must be exercised.

"Let me also point out that you cannot be useful abroad unless you have been trained here. If you are not trained here, you will depend heavily on your usefulness has been proved at home. No man ought to receive or will receive respect abroad, unless, as an American, he has won his spurs in American life.

"I trust I need not say I speak in no spirit of mere chauvinism. On the contrary, I speak, as I have said, from the standpoint of one who sincerely admires other nations, who has a sense of grateful appreciation of what they have done for him, but who is more than ever convinced to be useful to the world at large, it is necessary, first, to be one of your own and blood of your blood, with your own countrymen, able to do your duty to the fullest extent in dealing with the problems your follow countrymen have to solve.

MEN AND SCHOLARS.

"It is important that this university should turn out scholars. It is more important it should turn out men able to do, to the fullest extent, what is required of them by the complex needs of American citizenship; and remember always that your power to show respect to others will depend heavily on your own self-respect. In the days when America mistrusted itself, America felt bound to assert itself rather loudly in the face of foreign nations.

"The greater America's confidence grows in itself, the more America becomes strong and able to hold her own in the face of any nation of the earth.
The more ready America will become to treat each and every nation in a spirit of the fullest cordiality and friendship, and the less apt she will be to take offense, not merely needlessly, but to take offense when there is some small need, but not enough to warrant losing one's temper.

"The admission of inferiority in the face of another power is often rendered as evident by over-quickness to resent a fancied slight as it is by a tendency to bow down to the other power, and America has reached the position where she need show neither one nor the other form of admission of inferiority.

AMERICA ABROAD.

"One more word and then I am through. I was struck by two things everywhere I traveled abroad. One was that the name 'America' stood as a golden symbol of hope for all who felt they were downtrodden, that through no fault of their own they had failed to receive the justice to which they were entitled in life. The name 'America' stood as a symbol of aspiration, of the possibility of realizing ideals according to which every man, rich or poor, should be treated on his worth as a man and should be given an opportunity to show that worth and to be judged as he succeeds in showing it.

"That on one side. On the other, I found everywhere a certain disheartened sense that we were not doing as well as we ought to have come, that our ideals as there was ground for believing that we ought to have come, that we had not achieved them as we ought. Every instance of corruption, demagoguery, of the unjust use of wealth, the unjust use of wealth to the detriment of the public and the improper acceptance by the public that more wealth in and of itself, constitu-ed a claim in regard to the community; every instance of brutal materialism on our part; every time that it was made evident that the attitude of our country was such as ought not to be the attitude of a democracy founded on the principles upon which ours was founded; every single instance serving to dim the ideal that the name 'America' conjured up in the minds of those in foreign lands—every such instance served as an excuse for those who with a sneer bid mankind halt where it is, because the ideals that are set before us are the ideals of dreamers only.

"Now, you Harvard men here, you men of America, if you won't see that your house is put in order for your own sake, I suppose it would be useless to ask you to put it in order for the sake of other men; and yet I cannot imagine a more stirring appeal being made to any people than this well-voiced, voiceless appeal from those who in other lands have not had the treatment to which they are in justice entitled, who appeal to us to manage our republic according to the high standards of morality and decency, so that they can keep unshaken their faith in a realiz-able ideal."

TRIBUTE TO HUGHES.

In addressing Gov. Hughes, Col.
Roosevelt received a round of applause and cheers when he said:

"Our governor has a very persuasive way with him. I had intended to keep absolutely clear of any kind of public or political question after coming home, and I could carry out my resolution all right until I met the governor this morning. He explained to me then that as I had come back to live in New York I had to help him out, and after a very brief conversation I put up my hand, and agreed to help him. I meant to say I agreed to try to help him. That makes a difference. I haven't the slightest idea whether my efforts will do any good, but I have sent to the local authorities in New York as emphatic an appeal as I know how to send, asking that the legislature hold up the hands of the governor and pass the legislation affecting our political structure which the governor feels the people throughout the state are crying more and more to feel to be essential to our wholesome political life.

"It is a fortunate thing for New York and it is also a fortunate thing for the United States that New York should have for its executive an officer of the stamp of Gov. Hughes."

In responding Gov. Hughes said:
"I desire to express my appreciation of the great service rendered today, not to me alone, but to the people of New York, by its first citizen.

"I also desire to express my appreciation of the contribution made by college men to the best work in public affairs, as well as in private undertakings. It is no accident that we have just closed the administration of Theodore Roosevelt at Harvard and are under the administration of William H.
Taft of Yale."

President Lowell announced tonight that the university had received $380-000 in gifts during the year. The class of 1885 alone gave $104,950.

"INSURGENT" MURDOCK.

Says His Re-election From Kansas
Will be Uncontested.

New York, June 30.—Victor Murdock, the Kansas "insurgent," was at the Hotel Astor today en route to his home.
"I am going home to an uncontested re-election," said Mr. Murdock, "the first time such a thing has happened in Kansas, and I can tell you I appreciate the compliment."

"As to the situation in Congress, the battle will be hotter before it becomes calm again. Every position which has been assaulted and taken by the insurgents has been, in fact, a maneuver in the direction of the main battle, in which the attempt will be made to take away from the speaker his last and greatest bulwark of power—the appointments of committees."

FATALLY INJURED BY FIREFWORKS EXPLOSION explosion which resulted, both his eyes were blown out and he was otherwise horribly injured. He will die.

Think of Last Summer--

You can remember days when the heat inside your kitchen was so great you could hardly bear it. With the right stove you would have made a better hostess. Save your health. Don't put up with the drudgery of a coal range. You can have a clean, cool, pleasant kitchen. The

New Perfection

WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove does away with all drudgery of cooking. Why should you be a slave to a coal range when you can have an Oil Cook-Stove that is cheaper than coal, cleaner than coal, doesn't "smell," doesn't smoke, lights instantly, can be put out instantly, leaves no ashes, and doesn't heat the kitchen.

With one of these stoves you can boil, bake or roast the most elaborate dinner.
You can change from a slow to a quick fire, or the other way about, by simply turning a wick. Apply a match, and instantly the heat from an intense blue flame shoots upward through the turquoise-blue enamel chimneys to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven—but no where else. The stove has every convenience that can be thought of: Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping food and dishes hot, drop shelves to hold coffee or teapots, towel rack; in fact every convenience possible.

The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinets.
